Excerpt from A Brief Manual of Games for Organized Play: Adapted From Standard Sources All the players, except one who is it, stand in a circle. It runs around on the outside of the circle, carrying a handkerchief, which he quietly drops behind one of the players in the circle. As soon as this player in the circle discovers that the handkerchief has been dropped behind him, he must pick it up and run around the circle in the same direction as the player who dropped it, trying to catch him before he reaches the place left vacant in the circle. If it is caught he must be it over again; if not, the other player becomes it, and the game is repeated. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
